

Hakomi Mindful Somatic Psychotherapy:

AN INTRODUCTION

PRINCETON, NJ
MAY 5-6, 2018

"A visionary contribution to mindfulness in psychotherapy."
-Daniel Siegel, author of "The Mindful Brain"

"Hakomi presents some astounding methods for getting to core material. It is well-grounded in theory, and revolutionary in its results." - Association of Humanistic Psychology

Hakomi integrates mindfulness and somatics into the psychotherapy process with uniquely effective results:

The dynamic, active use of mindfulness is a foundation of the Hakomi Method. When introduced with Hakomi techniques, it creates a rapid, experiential access route to the unconscious "blueprints" and implicit memories which invisibly shape our lives. When unconscious, this material creates projections, conflict and disharmony in our self-perceptions, relationships and behavior. Once conscious and directly experienced, it is available for memory re-consolidation and transformation, including the healing of attachment issues.

Hakomi is a body-centered (somatic) approach. The body is viewed as a "map of the psyche" - a door that can be opened to reveal the entire character and belief system of the individual. The body's habitual patterns become a powerful access route to unconscious core material.

This experiential process, although safe and gentle, evokes a powerful "felt sense" for the client, allowing them to take ownership of core patterns as they emerge, as well as their change and integration.

Loving presence and the healing relationship are also central to Hakomi. We develop an exquisite sensitivity and attunement to others, using empathic skills to read and contact "indicators" - subtle, unconscious cues. This creates a deep sense of safety and connection, allowing us to engage the "cooperation of the unconscious."

Course Objectives:

In this workshop, you will and learn and practice how to:

- Integrate active, psychodynamic mindfulness into your session with clients
- Use loving presence to enhance the healing relationship
- Use Hakomi principles including nonviolence to create safety in the therapeutic environment
- Discover subtle, somatic cues in the body and its habitual patterns that are "indicators" of unconscious material
- Use this information to create safe, yet powerful access routes to discover and contact core unconscious material.

This workshop is designed for therapists, counselors, social workers, healing professionals and graduate students in these fields. We will experientially learn Hakomi skills and approaches that are immediately applicable, and the workshop also serves as the prerequisite for the Comprehensive Training in Hakomi Mindful Somatic Psychotherapy.
